

AINE DIVINE – 2015 SOCIETY INVITED ARTIST

Self portrait

I am a portraitist and art teacher from Roslin, Midlothian. Originally from Cork I graduated from Crawford College of Art and Design in 1991, gaining a Higher Diploma in art teaching in 1995.

I competed successfully in the Irish National Portrait awards in the 1990's, while in 2005 I appeared in BBC One's "Star Portraits" and was delighted when Mo Mowlam (the late Northern Ireland minister) chose my portrait of her to keep.

Sports stars have been more recent commissions, with this year becoming a finalist in the Sky Arts portraitist of the year competition. I exhibit extensively in Scotland, while in recent years also gaining awards from the Royal Watercolour Society in London. A self portrait currently graces the front cover of the "Artist and Illustrators" magazine.
